

MICROCARD MICROFICHE CATALOG

MICROCARD® EDITIONS, INC.
901 TWENTY-SIXTH STREET, N.W., WASHINGTON, D.C. 20037

ON THE COVER—the brand, new Mark IV Microfiche Reader—designed specifically for libraries for use with all microfiches, positive or negative, in current production regardless of size (e.g. AEC, NASA, Thomas Micro Catalog, chemical patents, foreign microfiche) and with all projected microfiches that adhere to the standards adopted by the National Microfilm Association (see, National Micro News, No. 66 (October, 1963), 42-76).

In the above photograph we have three unitized microforms of the same size—75mm × 125mm or approximately 3" × 5". From left to right: a positive microfiche (black images, white background); a Microcard; a negative microfiche (white image, black background). Microcard Editions, Inc. publishes and reprints materials using these three methods of microreproduction. If you would like a sample of any or all of these unitized microforms, please fill out and return the enclosed postcard. No stamp is required.

Suggestions for materials to be published or reprinted on Microcard and/or microfiche are always welcome. Please send us your want lists to assist us in assigning priorities to forthcoming reprints.

UNITIZED MICROFORMS

Unitized microform is the term applied to opaque (paper) or transparent (film) cards of whatever size upon which reports, books, documents, etc. are reproduced generally anywhere from 1/15 to 1/20th their original size. Unitized microforms can either be positive (black images, white background) or negative (white images, black background). They have the following characteristics:

Compact—over 10,000 pages can be stored in less than two inches of drawer space.

Light—a thousand pages can be mailed, book rate, for 5¢.

Easy to identify—Descriptive information (e.g., author, title, report number, coding, subject) in type legible to the naked eye identifies each unitized microform.

Easily retrieved—Unitized microforms are numbered in type legible to the naked eye so that any one card can be retrieved from a file in a few seconds. These numbers identify the card within a sequence of cards (e.g., Card 1, Card 2, Card 3, etc.) and the pages reproduced upon the card (e.g., pp. 94-189).

Self-contained units—One 100-page report on one card or fiche. No need to wind through 100 feet of film to find the report you want—no need to tie up 100 feet of film while you look at one report.

Variable reduction, variable format—Unitized microforms are made using a variety of reductions and formats (the number of exposures per line, and the number of lines per card or fiche) in order to give the best possible image. The number of pages, therefore, that can be reproduced on a unitized microform varies considerably depending upon the size of the card or fiche used and the size of the original material.

MICROCARD¹

Microcard—a registered trademark, is a 75mm × 125mm (approximately 3" × 5") opaque card upon which materials are reproduced at approximately 1/18th their original size.

Microcard have all the characteristics listed above for unitized microforms and in addition offer the following:

Durability—A Microcard is no delicate, scratchy prima donna. Microcard are meant to be used often. Finger prints, grease, rubbing, and other wear means nothing. The micro-images are captured permanently under the surface of the card where they cannot be harmed. Microcard are produced photographically—they are not printed by offset—this means that the images on the cards cannot smudge as is the case with miniaturized printing.

Ease of storage—Microcard and library catalog cards are identical in size (75mm × 125mm) and therefore can be stored in the same cabinets. Microcard can also be stored in any standard 3" × 5" office card file.

Preservation—Microcard do not require temperature and humidity controls for preservation as does microfilm and microfiche.

Other micro-opaques—The Microcard Corporation manufactures micro-opaque cards in a variety of sizes all having the same basic advantages offered by Microcard.

MICROFICHE

Microfiche is the French word applied in this country to sheets of film containing micro-images. Microfiches can be any size—European ones are generally 9cm × 12cm while those produced in this country are 75mm × 125mm (nominal 3" × 5") or 105mm × 148mm (nominal 4" × 6") as per the standards adopted by the National Microfilm Association (see, National Micro-News, No. 66 (October, 1963), 42-76). To date, all of the works published by Microcard Editions, Inc., are on the 75mm × 125mm size.

Microcard Editions publishes on positive fiches (black images, white background) except when the fiche is expected to be a storage intermediate from which full-size copies will be printed as opposed to direct reading of the image on a screen—in these cases negative fiches (white image, black background) are used as most reader-printers reverse the images thus producing positive hard copy from a negative fiche.

Both micro-opaques and microfiches are manufactured by making contact prints from a master negative which has been produced on a step-and-repeat camera or by cutting reel microfilm into strips and mounting these strips in a frame. In making Microcard and other micro-opaques the contact print is made on photographic paper; in making microfiches the contact print is made on film.

Microfiches offer all the advantages listed for unitized microforms plus those given below.

Image quality—microfiches give exceptionally sharp, clear images on the reader screen.

Brightness—as light is transmitted through a microfiche as opposed to being reflected off an opaque card, the image on the screen is very bright.

Ease of making hard copy—full-size copies can be made of any page on a microfiche using reader-printers manufactured by Minnesota Mining, Documat, Recordak, Itek, and other leading firms.

PUBLICATIONS

Microcard Editions, Inc., publishes principally on Microcard and microfiches. Its activities are almost identical to those of a conventional book publisher except for the method of publication used. Microcard Editions, Inc., does not reproduce single copies of books, journals, or articles on request.

MICROTAPE

Both Microcard and microfiches are designed for making multiple copies of a given item—both are economically unsuited for making one copy. Reel microfilm was designed primarily for preserving records such as bank checks and is ideal for making one copy of an item for deep storage. Reel microfilm, however, is cumbersome as a means of reproducing short reports, articles, etc. to which reference will be made frequently. Microtape was designed to permit opaque microreproduction on a one-copy basis and in addition offers the following advantages: (1) the material may be microfilmed anywhere; (2) any size card may be used; (3) ordinary office file cards may be used; (4) new material may be added to the card at any time.

Microtape works as follows: (1) the material is microfilmed on 16mm or 35mm reel microfilm; (2) the microfilm is sent to any Microtape station licensed by the Microcard Corporation; (3) by direct contact printing a reel similar in appearance to adhesive tape is made—this reel contains micro-images identical to those found on a Microcard; (4) the reel of Microtape and the reel of microfilm is sent to the customer; (5) the Microtape is cut and mounted by the customer on cards—the tape comes with an adhesive backing so no gluing is required.

Microtape has been used extensively for hospital records. Once a patient is discharged his records are microfilmed and the microfilm is converted into Microtape. The tape is cut up and mounted on cards—one or more cards per patient as required. If the patient is readmitted at any time the same routine takes place upon his discharge, the new Microtaped records being added to the card which already exists for him in the file.

EQUIPMENT

For information about equipment produced or available through the Microcard Organization please refer to the Equipment section of this catalog and/or write for descriptive brochures. Microcard and Microfiche Readers can be purchased from either the Microcard Corporation or Microcard Editions, Inc.

MICROCARD AND MICROFICHE—ADVANTAGES OF PARTICULAR INTEREST TO LIBRARIES

Savings in original purchase price—A used set of Beilstein costs $1550.00, the same set costs $583.00 on either Microcard or microfiche; a paper reprint of The Rolls Series costs $4000.00, the Microcard reprint costs $699.00 and the microfiche reprint costs $799.00.

Elimination of Binding Costs—Generally speaking, the cost of a Microcard or microfiche edition of a journal will be less than the cost of binding the original, therefore it is economical for a library to discard the paper edition after its period of heavy use, replacing it with the microform version.

Reduction in storage costs—there is further economy in that Microcard and microfiches reduce storage costs by 95%—important when you consider that it costs 50¢ per year to store a 1000-page volume.

Cataloging Aids—When available, the Library of Congress printed card is reproduced on the first card or fiche of a given work. In addition, the first card or fiche also contains the Dewey Decimal and Library of Congress classification numbers, as well as the Library of Congress card number.

Easy to use—No reels to thread, no complex reading devices to get out of order. In 30 seconds anyone is an expert user. Microcard and Microfiche Readers occupy little space, are easily portable, and provide a clear, sharp image. For details see the Equipment section of this catalog.

HOW TO USE THIS CATALOG

SCOPE

This catalog lists all works published by or available from Microcard Editions, Inc., on Microcard opaques, Microcard transparencies (microfiches), and on microfilm.

INQUIRIES

All inquiries, whether mail or telephone, should be directed to: Accounting and Shipping Department, Microcard Editions, Inc., West Salem, Wisconsin. Telephone 6-2051.

ENTRIES

Works offered are listed first in alphabetic order and then by subjects.

PRICES

All prices are subject to change without notice.

Prices given on a per-volume or per-year basis are approximations based on previous years. In such instances the actual price is determined by the number of cards or fiches or the number of feet of film required to reproduce the material.

MICROFORMS

The method of microreproduction used is given after the price. Microcard and other micro-opaques are 75mm x 125mm unless specified otherwise. Microfiches are positive (black image, white background) and 75mm x 125mm in size unless specified otherwise.

SINGLE VOLUMES, BROKEN SETS, UNITS, ETC.

Many large sets and long runs of back issues of journals, newspapers, government documents, etc., are listed in this catalog. In some instances the complete set or entire run of back issues must be purchased; in other instances single volumes or units consisting of a number of volumes are sold. For specific information write or telephone: Accounting and Shipping Department, Microcard Editions, Inc., West Salem, Wisconsin. Telephone: 6-2051.

The Camden Society was established in 1838 in London for the purpose of publishing historical and antiquarian information. In 1897, it was incorporated into the Royal Historical Society.

The Society was named in honor of William Camden (1551-1623); the English antiquarian and historian who was one of the founders of English historiography and who is now best known for his antiquarian Survey of the British Isles, Britannia, published in Latin in 1586, a work which remained the basic source book for British topography and antiquities for two hundred years.

The following works are indicative of the material found in this series: Letters of Elizabeth and James VI of Scotland, ed. by James Bruce; Domesday of St. Paul's of the Year 1222; Treatise on the pretended divorce between Henry VIII and Catherine of Aragon by N. Harpshield; Historical description of the County of Essex; by J. Norden. A complete listing in alphabetical order will be found in the Peabody Institute (Baltimore) Catalogue, pp. 528-29.

$239.00 (Microcard)

The Privy Council was the chief source of executive power in England before the emergence of the cabinet system of government. It developed during the later years of the reign of Henry VIII (r. 1509-47), when the councillors at the King's side became permanently organized as a "privy council," and enjoyed its greatest power during the reign of Elizabeth I (r. 1558-1603). Under the latter Stuarts (1660-1714) the Council as a whole declined due to the Stuart policy of working primarily with confidential committees within the Council. Following the repeal in 1706 of the clause in the Act of Settlement (1701) which would have compelled all business to pass through the full Privy Council it rapidly lost its political powers to the Cabinet.

The Chemical Society is the oldest chemical society in existence. Its Journal was preceded by its Memoirs (1841) and was known for a time (1847-61) as the Quarterly Journal. In 1885 the Society began publishing a separate Proceedings which contained scientific information until 1915 when they became a record of business activities only. For many years the Journal consisted of two parts—"Transactions" and "Abstracts" but in 1925 the "Abstracts" were transferred elsewhere. In 1926 volumes ceased to be numbered, the year alone constituting the full reference.

EARLY ENGLISH POETRY, BALLADS, AND POPULAR LITERATURE OF THE MIDDLE AGES

London, Percy Society, 1840-52. 30 vols.

$199.00 (Microcard—price includes a Micro III

Microcard Reader at no additional cost)

The Percy Society was founded in 1840 by Thomas Wright, Thomas Crofton, C. A. Dyce, J. O. Halliwell, and J. P. Collier, for the purpose of publishing old English lyrics and ballads. It was named in honor of Thomas Percy (1729-1811), bishop of Dromore, who in 1765 published Reliques of Ancient English Poetry, a collection of ballads, sonnets, historical songs, and metrical romances, a work which did much to promote the revival of interest in the older English poetry.

A complete list of titles will be found in, The Bibliographer's Manual of English Literature, edited by Wm. Lowndes (London, Bell, 1857-64), Volume IV, Appendix, pp. 59-65.

The Royal Society of London is the oldest scientific society in Great Britain and one of the oldest in Europe, having been founded in 1660.

Selections from the correspondence of members with continental philosophers furnished the beginnings of the Philosophical Transactions.

The first number appeared on Monday, March 6, 1665. By 1750, 497 numbers in 46 volumes had been published. These numbers were issued under the auspices of the respective secretaries without the supervision of the Society: since 1750 the Transactions have been published under the supervision of a committee of the Society.

A full-size, paper bound reprint of the general index to volumes 1-70 may be purchased for $25.00 from the Johnson Reprint Corporation, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York 3, N.Y. (This full-size reprint is not Unclassified AEC reports comprise a substantial portion of the world literature on atomic energy as the technical report is the principal form in which results of research and development by the AEC and its contractors are recorded.

These reports are abstracted and indexed in Nuclear Science Abstracts, the principal guide to unclassified world literature on atomic energy. Each issue is indexed by subject, author, issuing organization, and report number. Indexes are cumulated quarterly, semiannually, annually, and every five years.

CHEMICAL PATENTS, July, 1963-

All patents listed in the "Chemical Section" of the Patent Office Official Gazette are supplied on negative microfiche on a standing order basis at 30¢ per microfiche or approximately 3.7¢ per patent. On the basis of approximately 12,000 chemical patents per year the cost to subscribers is around $450.00 a year—substantially less than the $3000.00 the same patents would cost from the Patent Office.

30¢ per microfiche. (Subscriptions only—individual fiche and individual patents not sold)

Patents are mailed every two weeks; billing is done quarterly. Patents are in sequence by their numbers with the beginning of each patent distinctly indicated by the reproduction of its number in type large enough to be read with the unaided eye. Microfiche conform to the National Microfilm Association standards.

The Chemical Society is the oldest chemical society in existence. Its Journal was preceded by its Memoirs (1841) and was known for a time (1847-61) as the Quarterly Journal. In 1885 the Society began publishing a separate Proceedings which contained scientific information until 1915 when they became a record of business activities only. For many years the Journal consisted of two parts—"Transactions" and "Abstracts" but in 1925 the "Abstracts" were transferred elsewhere. In 1926 volumes ceased to be numbered, the year alone constituting the full reference.

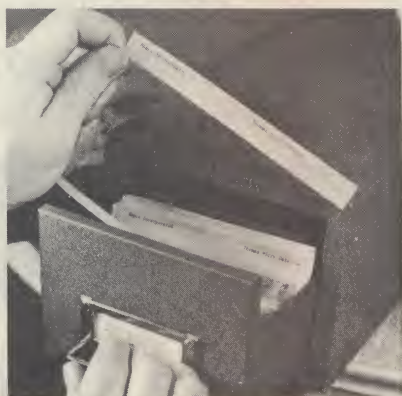

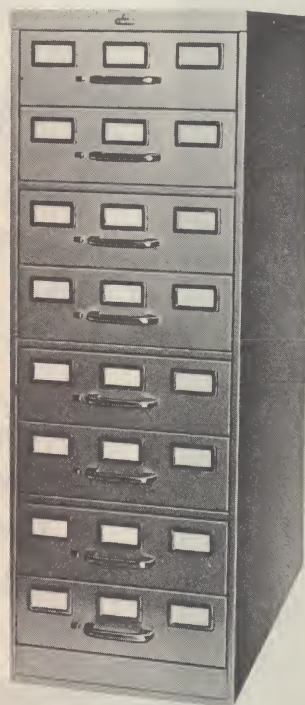

Microcard can be read with the portable Micro III Reader ($129.95) which is pictured above or with the library model Mark VII ($450.00).

A New Microfiche Reader Especially For Libraries

This is the Mark IV, the new microfiche reader by the Microcard Corporation. This new reader combines Microcard's precision engineering with a host of convenience features especially designed for library use. These features include:

Reading Comfort. The large 9½" x 11" screen allows full-page viewing, and is hooded and tinted for reading comfort. In addition, the Mark IV allows you to adjust screen brilliance to existing room light.

Ease of Operation. The microfiche holder opens automatically and paging and positioning are controlled by a single knob. The ultra-quiet internal blower assures continuously cool operation.

Versatility in Use. The reader's 18x magnification conforms with National Microfilm Association and government standards. The Mark IV will read both positive and negative microfiche in any size up to 5" x 8".

Library Utility. The Mark IV will operate from any standard wall outlet. The readers cast aluminum base provides rigidity and balance, yet occupies table space of only 9" x 13". Maintenance is reduced to the infrequent replacement of the inexpensive projection lamp.

The Mark IV microfiche reader is priced at $350.00 f.o.b. West Salem, Wisconsin. You may order direct or obtain more information by contacting Department M, Microcard Corporation, West Salem, Wisconsin.

The Most Comfortable Reader Ever Produced

Recognized as the standard of quality in micro-opaque reading equipment, this table model reader is equipped with a host of comfort features. The 300 watt illumination system offers a clear, sharp image for easy reading. The Mark VII contains an adjustable light control which allows a balancing of reader light with existing room light. This simple one-button control virtually eliminates eye fatigue.

The Mark VII's new cooling system is another "comfort-in-use" innovation. The pancake type blower, combined with double-heat-absorbing glass in the optical system and a new condenser lens, assures cool, comfortable operation, even when used for long periods of time.

These special features are combined with other precision components such as the specially designed flat field lens, the clear, sharp fresnel viewing screen, and the Microcard® card moving and focusing controls.

For additional reading ease, the screen tilts to any convenient reading position. The handsome Mark VII, finished in a tasteful grey-green wrinkle finish, blends well with any office or library decor.

The Microcard Mark VII is priced at $450.00 f.o.b. West Salem, Wisconsin. You may order direct or obtain more information by contacting Department M, Microcard Corporation, West Salem, Wisconsin.

*The reader that's portable

The Micro III is a truly portable microform reader. It folds compactly into its self-enclosing case, weighs just 6½ lbs., and reads a Microcard® or any other opaque up to 5" x 8" in size. The Micro III combines a three element Microcard® lens, a 50 watt illumination system, and an 8" x 9" directional screen to produce a concentrated image for private viewing.

Individual scholars and smaller libraries will find the Micro III a practical introduction to microforms. Larger libraries can use these readers to supplement the Mark VII in the library, or as loan-out equipment for scholars. The Micro III is encased in a cast aluminum base and sturdy Royalite cover to add durability and trim appearance to its list of features.

The Micro III is priced at only $129.95 f.o.b. West Salem Wisconsin. You may order or secure additional information on the Micro III by contacting Dept. M2, Microcard Corporation, West Salem, Wisconsin.

FARADAY SOCIETY TRANSACTIONS on Microcard[®]

Micro III Microcard Reader

The Transactions of the Faraday Society have been reprinted on Microcard by Microcard Editions, Inc.

Volumes 1-46 (1905-50) are available for $349.00.

The above price includes a Micro III Microcard Reader at no additional cost. The Micro III is a light (6 lbs.), portable reader which folds into its own self-enclosing case. It reads Microcards and other micro-opaques—with an accessory clip-on film illuminator (not included in this set) it reads microfiche and jacketed microfilm).

"The Transactions of the Faraday Society . . . deal largely with the application of physical chemistry to scientific problems; they constitute part of the essential reading of those working in this field". G. Malcolm Dyson, A Short Guide to Chemical Literature.

"This Journal was founded to promote the study of sciences lying between chemistry, biology, and physics. It covers electrochemistry, physical chemistry, colloids, and electrometallurgy. Today the journal deals almost exclusively with experimental and theoretical chemistry." Waddington and Marquis, Chemical Literature, an introduction.

A full-size and bound reprint of the general index to volumes 1-20 may be purchased for $14.00 from the Johnson Reprint Corporation, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York 3, N.Y. (this full-size reprint is not available through Microcard Editions, Inc.)

PERCY SOCIETY PUBLICATIONS on Microcard®

Micro III Microcard Reader

Early English Poetry, Ballads, and Popular Literature of the Middle Ages, a thirty volume work published in London by the Percy Society between 1840 and 1852, is now available on Microcard for $199.00.

The above price includes a Micro III Microcard Reader at no additional cost. The Micro III is a light (6 lbs.), portable reader which folds into its own self-enclosing case. It reads Microcard and other micro-opaques—with an accessory clip-on film illuminator (not included) it reads microfiche and jacketed microfilm.

The Percy Society was founded in 1840 by Thomas Wright, Thomas Crofton, C. A. Dyce, J. O. Halliwell, and J. P. Collier, for the purpose of publishing old English lyrics and ballads. It was named in honor of Thomas Percy (1729-1811), bishop of Dromore, who in 1765 published Reliques of Ancient English Poetry, a collection of ballads, sonnets, historical songs, and metrical romances, a work which did much to promote the revival of interest in the older English poetry.

A complete list of titles will be found in, The Bibliographer's Manual of English Literature, edited by Wm. Lowndes (London, Bell, 1857-64), Volume IV, Appendix, pp. 59-65.

PHILOSOPHICAL TRANSACTIONS OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY OF LONDON (the unabridged edition) on Microcard®

Micro III Microcard Reader

The PHILOSOPHICAL TRANSACTIONS of the Royal Society of London, Volumes 1-70 (1751-80), have been reprinted on Microcard. Volumes 1-46 (1665-1750) are available for $279.00.

The above price includes a Micro III Microcard Reader at no additional cost. Volumes 47-70 (1751-80), including the general index to vols. 1-70, are available for $129.00.

The Royal Society of London is the oldest scientific society in Great Britain and one of the oldest in Europe, having been founded in 1660. Selections from the correspondence of members with continental philosophers furnished the beginnings of the Philosophical Transactions.

The first number appeared on Monday, March 6, 1665. By 1750, 497 numbers in 46 volumes had been published. These numbers were issued under the auspices of the respective secretaries without the supervision of the Society: since 1750 the Transactions have been published under the supervision of a committee of the Society.

A full-size, paper bound reprint of the general index to volumes 1-70 may be purchased for $25.00 from the Johnson Reprint Corporation, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York 3, N. Y. (This full-size reprint is not available through Microcard Editions, Inc.)

CAMDEN SOCIETY PUBLICATIONS on Microcard®

The PUBLICATIONS OF THE CAMDEN SOCIETY have been reprinted on Microcard®. Numbers 1-105 (1838-72) are available for $352.00.

Micro III Microcard Reader

The above price includes a Micro III Microcard Reader at no additional cost.

The Camden Society was established in 1838 in London for the purpose of publishing historical and antiquarian information. In 1897, it was incorporated into the Royal Historical Society.

The Society was named in honor of William Camden (1551-1623), the English antiquarian and historian who was one of the founders of English historiography and who is now best known for his antiquarian Survey of the British Isles, Britannia, published in Latin in 1586, a work which remained the basic source book for British topography and antiquities for two hundred years.

The following works are indicative of the material found in this series: Letters of Elizabeth and James VI of Scotland, ed. by James Bruce; Domesday of St. Paul's of the Year 1222; Treatise on the pretended divorce between Henry VIII and Catherine of Aragon by N. Harpshield; Historical description of the County of Essex, by J. Norden. A complete listing in alphabetical order will be found in Volume I, pages 528-29 of the Catalog of the library of the Peabody Institute.

GERMAN REICHSTAG PROCEEDINGS

Germany. Reichstag.
Verhandlungen des Reichstags.
Bd. 326-458 (1919-1933) [Card 1 (of 10)-p. i-vi, [1], 1-31]

Consists of Stenographische Berichte, registers, and Anlagen for Verhandlungen der verfassunggebenden deutschen Nationalversammlung (1919-20) and Verhandlungen des Reichstags (1 Wahlperiode 1920-IX Wahlperiode 1933)

The Verhandlungen des Reichstags (Bd. 1, 1871) are the proceedings of the governing body which succeeded the Reichstag of the North German Confederation.

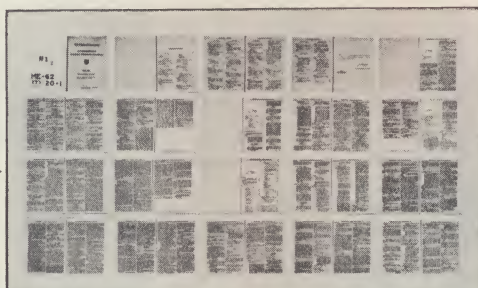

Bd. 326-343 (February, 1919-May, 1920) relate to the Constituent Assembly: Germany. Nationalversammlung, 1919-20
Verhandlungen der verfassunggebenden deutschen Nationalversammlung. Bd. 326-343 of Verhandlungen des Reichstags.

Published on Microcards in 1963 by Microcard Editions, Inc., 901 26th Street, NW, Washington 7, D.C.

The Verhandlungen des Reichstags, Volumes 326-458 (1919-33) are now available on Microcards at a price of $950.00

The Verhandlungen des Reichstags began in 1871 and are the proceedings of the legislative body which succeeded the Reichstag of the North German Confederation. Those for the period 1919-33 relate essentially to the Weimar Republic and include the proceedings of the National Constituent Assembly (Volumes 326-343, 1919-20) which wrote the Weimar constitution.

The Verhandlungen des Reichstags for 1871-1918 will be published on Microcards during the next few years in cooperation with the European History Section of the Southern Historical Association under whose auspices the current volumes were reprinted.
